STATE HOUSE NOTES

Bill killing has begun in the house with that destroyer of hopes, the judiciary committee, wielding the knife. The committee returned to the house the Cullen bill "for the better observance of holidays," which was referred to them two days before. The bill was reported "inexpedient to legislate," and the report was accepted without a word being said in support of the measure. The bill was aimed to prohibit unnecessary work on national or state holidays and protect the toilers in shops and stores who are often compelled to work a whole or part of general holidays or lose their jobs.

Mr. Hurd of Manchester has introduced a bill in the house requiring the catalogue for the state library to contain both an author list and a subject list.

A bill to extend the time when the care of all insane persons shall be taken from the counties and placed under the central control of the state, from Jan. 1, 1909, to Jan. 1, 1913, has been introduced in the house by Mr. Fairbanks and was referred to the committee on state hospital.

In regard to the bill for a new state house, the Concord Patriot says that "the present building is a veritable fire trap and should it ever become ignited the state would suffer an irreparable loss in the destruction of the books, papers and other public documents, many of which are fully exposed as the vaults are not of sufficient capacity to contain them. And speaking about vaults, there are only two in the building that are in any way fireproof, the others being of such construction that they could not withstand a hot fire a minute."

Senator Adams of Gilmston next Tuesday will have voted for Jacob H. Gallinger for reelection as United States senator three times in succession, as a member of the house in 1897, and in 1903 he thus cast his ballot and this year it will be as a member of the upper branch.

A bill providing for the office of a public administrator is one of the measures that may be introduced during the present session of the legislature. It is said that in the majority of states such an office is in existence, and it is stated that Manchester in particular is badly in need of something of the kind. The duties of the office would require that the public administrator take immediate charge of the estate and personal property in all cases of sudden death. Under existing conditions application has to be made to the judge of probate for the appointing of an administrator in cases where it is needed, with the result that according to law, a period of thirty days elapses.

COLORADO TRAIN WRECK KILLS FIFTY PEOPLE

The First Big Disaster to Occur in the Present Year

Glenwood Springs, Col., Jan. 16.— Fifty persons are believed to have been killed and more than thirty injured, some of them fatally, in a head-on collision between the Denver & Rio Grande passenger train No. 5, west bound, and a double-header freight at Dotsero, twenty miles east of here.

In a day coach containing sixty passengers, only one person so far has been identified as escaping unhurt—a woman as yet unidentified, now wandering in the snow, crazed by fright.

The passenger train crashed into the head engine of the freight train going across a switch at Dotsero, which is a blind siding. The freight car and the first passenger coach were wrecked. The day coach was telescoped. It was in this coach that sixty persons are believed to have been killed or injured, as none but the crazed woman is known to have escaped unhurt.

For hours following the wreck no assistance could be secured for the dying.

THE SEAPORTS OF EUROPE

And the Lessons They Teach of How to Develop a Harbor.

NO. 9, LONDON
Nothing is known of London previous to the invasion of the Romans, but we learn from Tacitus, A. D. 100, that so early as the reign of Nero it was an important place.

After the establishment of the Saxon dominion London is supposed to have become the capital of the East Saxon kingdom. Eventually it became the capital of the entire kingdom and after the Norman conquest received a charter. The history is one of continued progress, though the city has at different periods been severely visited by fire and pestilence.

In the fifteenth century London began to make marvellous strides and in the sixteenth it vied with Venice, Genoa and Amsterdam, both in foreign commerce and in the wealth of its citizens. During the reign of Charles II, the city was partly destroyed by the first ravages of the Great Plague and in 1666 what is known as the Great Fire of London almost entirely destroyed the old city.

Today London is the financial, commercial and maritime center of the world, having a population of 6,589,000. The city is irregularly built, but has a great number of magnificent buildings, parks, squares and places of historic interest. There are more than five hundred churches. The principal one is St. Paul's Cathedral, which was built in 1710 under the direction of Sir Christopher Wren, the architect, and Grand Master of Masons. Beneath the crypt lie the remains of Nelson, Wellington, Reynolds, Turner and other illustrious men.

Of equal historic interest is the Westminster Abbey, founded in the early part of the seventh century. Here all the sovereigns, from Edward the Confessor to King Edward VII, have been crowned in the ancient coronation chair. The Abbey is now the receptacle of the busts of illustrious men in every walk of life, but especially of poets and literary people.

Among other buildings are the

LOCATE IT IN PORTSMOUTH
The Chronicle has several times urged that if New Hampshire is to have a new normal school it should be located in Portsmouth. The last time it did so was on the occasion of the State Grange meeting in this city at which resolutions were adopted in favor of the establishment of such an institution. Just now the state superintendent of instruction has recommended the establishment of four more normal schools, one at a time, and he would have one of them located in the southeastern part of the state. Portsmouth has in its training school a splendid nucleus for a normal school with the people already acquainted with the methods of work. Portsmouth is the best located of any city in the state for convenience of access by the people outside its own city limits. Portsmouth is the ideal excursion city of New England and is the best possible location for a summer school that there is in New Hampshire. In summer this is the coolest, in winter the warmest city in the good old Granite state. But beyond and above all these material reasons is the power of sentiment. It would mean much to future generations to have the teachers familiarized with the historic associations of the oldest community in the state, a community that is storied with true tales of the patriotic deeds of brave men and self-sacrificing women. The knowledge of their deeds, with all their wealth of inspiration to similar noble living, can be far better taught by those who know the locality. It is not for the past but for the future that we treasure old houses and old weapons and ancient documents. Let the next normal school be in Portsmouth.

OUR EXCHANGES
Washington Likes Gallinger
Washington is gratified by the reelection of Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire to fill a fourth term in the upper house of Congress. Since his first appearance in the Senate in 1891, he has been a diligent worker in behalf of the district, having in the course of his own terms in the House gained a close acquaintance with the capital and acquired a recognition of its possibilities and needs. He worked harmoniously and effectively with Chairman McMillan and Harris of the District committee for the advancement of the people making for the advancement of the city and when he succeeded Mr. McMillan as chairman, upon the latter's death, he was thoroughly qualified for the responsible assignment. He has since become a member of the committee on appropriations in which capacity he is in a position to render the District most effective service. New Hampshire avoids the mistake which has often been heretofore made in the selection of senators. It takes into account at full value the advantage of the long service of the incumbent and decides to retain a faithful representative who has by hard and intelligent work won a high place in the membership of the upper house. When he enters upon his fourth term Senator Gallinger will be ranked in point of continuous service by only five of his colleagues, Hale and Frye of Maine, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Cullom of Illinois and Daniel of Virginia, being himself of equal rank in this respect with Haysborough of North Dakota. —Washington Star.

STATE SANITARIUM
What It Is Likely to Ask of the New Hampshire Legislature

The trustees of the New Hampshire State Sanatorium have definitely determined that they do not need ask the state legislature for a special appropriation for the maintenance of that institution, now nearing completion, at Glencliff. The work undertaken there, it is now promised, will be completed by the middle of next month. This will include an administration building, power house, a ward building to accommodate about twenty patients, and adequate water supply. All of this foundation and the farm of 400 acres of which 200 are wooded, will be secured to the state within the original appropriation of $50,000. The furnishings of the buildings, including the fitting up of the power plant permanently, will need to be provided for by the present legislature, as well as the addition of such ward buildings as may be thought advisable. The trustees are confident that the state will be made upon the institution. The trustees asked the attorney general for an opinion. His reply was as follows: "Replying to your favor in which you refer to the manner of conducting the business of the New Hampshire state sanatorium, I will say that it is my opinion that this institution is to be maintained by the state in the same manner as the state hospital. This institution and the state hospital are corporations with one owner or stockholder, namely, the state of New Hampshire. The land that is not wooded, is required, excellent for drainage purposes, and it is calculated can be farmed to great advantage in connection with the institution for the fresh provision supplies that a sanatorium requires. It is determined that the cost of supporting patients at the sanatorium at Rockland, Mass., is a little in excess of $10 a week but it is believed that maintenance can be provided at a much lower figure at Glencliff. The trustees have not yet elected a superintendent but are considering applications and will make a choice at a meeting soon to be held. While the estimates have not been fully completed, it is thought that a special appropriation of $25,000 will be needed to put the institution in condition to meet the demands that will be made upon it."

A CARD OF THANKS
We desire to express our sincere thanks to the great many friends who by their many kind and thoughtful acts lessened in a measure the loss of our beloved son. To those who sent such beautiful flowers and kind words of sympathy we are most grateful.

A CHANCE FOR THE FISHERMEN

Portsmouth Would Be the Ideal Harbor for the Large Fishing Vessels

While Portsmouth is making a start to develop its water front in some way or other, there is another matter that should be taken up and worked on and that is the sailing of some of the modern fishing crafts to and from this port. A fleet of half a dozen of the big fishing vessels coming here with their cargoes would mean a good deal to the port and be quite an item during the winter.

Years ago the South End docks were lined with fishing craft of all kinds and those acquainted with the fishing trade say there is no reason now why Portsmouth cannot do some of the fishing and shipping as well as other ports along the coast.

ALLEGED SNEAK THIEF

Is Bound Over to the Next Superior Court

Patrick J. Downey was heard in police court today, charged with the larceny of $10.00 from Catherine Bowles. He pleaded not guilty. Downey annexed himself to the purse on Friday afternoon about two o'clock and shortly after was arrested on Ladd street. The plaintiff, Catherine Bowles, claimed that she grabbed the pocketbook from her on Water street, which also contained the keys to her house. She sent a description of the marine to the police and Officers Kelly and Hurley booked into him on Ladd street. He denied that he was the man wanted and insisted that there was a mistake, that there was another man by the same name who looked like him. The police refused to hunt up his double and marched him to the colors.

Today he told the court that the purse was handed to him, but when asked where he got the ten spot to buy wine said he did not know whether he was spending his own money or not.

Downey's Second Trip

It was brought out today that this was Downey's second money grab. About seven weeks ago he was one of a pair who called at a local hotel with a drummer, who offered a ten dollar bill in payment for the room rent for Downey and his chum.

They grabbed the long green from the landlady and made a garrison finish by jumping out the second-story window.

Held for High Court

The court found probable cause in the case of Friday and held Downey in two sureties of $200 each for the superior court. In default of same he was sent to jail.

One Lone Drunk

John Smart, drunk on Dennett street, was released on a suspended sentence.

REV. DR. CLARK

Further Particulars About Death of a Former Portsmouth Rector

The many friends in this city of Rev. Rufus W. Clark, D. D., were shocked and grieved to read in yesterday's Portsmouth Herald a brief announcement of his death which occurred at Columbus, Ohio, on Jan. 10.

Dr. Clark was born in this city in the year 1814, his father being at that time the much-loved pastor of the Congregational society. He was graduated from Williams College at the age of twenty-one and afterwards passed through a course of study and preparation at the General Theological Seminary, New York.

After his ordination he became rector of St. John's church in this city. Many of the then congregation now living will remember the active work of his successful rectorship, especially in pastoral visitations, care of the sick and aged, and the training of the young in his large and admirably ordered Sunday school.

After leaving this city he became rector of St. Paul's church, Detroit, Mich., a position which he filled with conspicuous devotion and success for twenty-eight years.

In 1905 Dr. Clark was appointed secretary of the Episcopal Sixth Missionary Department, which includes several of the Middle States. In this large field of usefulness he worked with characteristic energy and earnestness. In the current press notices which have come to hand his work is highly spoken of and it is said of him that he "made friends everywhere for himself and for his cause by his Catholic-mindedness and gentle spirit."

Rufus W. Clark was a true priest of God, an ardent churchman, a devoted pastor, a true friend and spiritual adviser, a tender and sympathetic helper in the cause of the sick and poor and the trusted guide and comrade of the young.

His friends will long be refreshed by the cheerful, gentle, hopeful spirit of this priest and Christian gentleman.

For any skin troubles this has no equal.

A PUBLIC NUISANCE

Editor Herald:—Can you inform me why the dog nuisance on Congress street is allowed to remain by the police, when the animals are a menace to the people passing up and down the street. To the big hounds that at times take up the greater part of the sidewalk in front of the office of the owner, has been added a fighting bull dog, and every little dog that passes has to fight, either one of the trio or at times all three. Women have come to the stage that they are afraid to pass on that side of the street and go across the street to escape these ugly brutes that are allowed to have their own sweet will at the displeasure of every merchant on the street. It is a dog fight every minute and a state that would not be tolerated for a minute in any other place. Several complaints have been made to the police who have taken no action. Is there no way that the public can be safeguarded?

THEY GOT THAT TREE

But It Cost Much Work and a Goodly Sum of Money

At Conway Junction the railroad men have been bothered considerably by a big tall pine tree half a mile west of the depot which stood on private land close to the track. The big stick so interfered with the sight of the masthead signals that the railroad authorities were obliged to purchase the tree from the owner and send a crew of section men there on Friday to cut it down, chop and split it up for the owner and hand him a check for the deal.

THE PERFUMED BATH

REFRESHING TONICS EASILY MADE AT HOME.

The Benefits to be Derived from Camphor, Oatmeal, Milk and Soda Baths—Particularly Commended for Depressingly Hot Weather.

A delicately perfumed bath of softened water is a tonic that improves the texture of the skin and improves the complexion. The expense of such a tub need not necessarily be large, and the refreshment from it is great owing to the relaxation of the nerves.

A Camphor bath is the one to be recommended for the depressingly warm days of summer. It is made from a mixture of an ounce of tincture of camphor, half as much tincture of benzoin, and two ounces of toilet vinegar. Such a bath as this may be taken in the morning, at night, or, if preferred, in the afternoon. Better effects will be gained if the immersion is taken at such time as to permit of lying down for half an hour or so afterward.

A woman who is fortunate enough to spend her summer on a farm where milk is plentiful should not lose the chance to indulge in milk baths, for nothing will more quickly soften and whiten the skin than this simple wash. A tub not being always at hand in the country, it may be necessary to use a basin. In either case the solution need not be more than half milk, and the water should be hot enough to warm the milk sufficiently to make it a comfortable temperature. No soap is used and a soap cloth, rather than a crust should be used in applying it.

A strong tonic Bath is made by mixing a pound of muriate of soda with half a pound of sulphate of soda and a quarter of a pound each of chlorides of lime and magnesia. These ingredients may be put into

Not expensive and very delightful is an oatmeal bath made by mixing five pounds of any of the "steamed" or "cooked" variety of oatmeal to a pound of powderedorris root to a pound of almond meal, and half a pound of castile soap scraped. A small quantity is then served into a cheesecloth bag and one of these may be used several times by tossing

Old-Time Recommendation.
 "All of our ancestors," said a physician, "were pock marked, and smallpox was a recommendation if you were looking for work."
 "What," mean is that you couldn't get a job if you had not had smallpox. No one wanted a servant who was liable at any moment to be stricken down with the loathsome disease."—Hence::

He opened a newspaper volume of 1774.

—Hence, 'help wanted' ads read like this:

"Wanted a man between twenty and thirty years of age, to be a footman and under butler in a great family. He must have had the smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fortune and fashion. The woman must have had the smallpox in the natural way.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

In sewing on hooks, whether used in connection with eyes or peels, always spread the hooks, all sizes, before sewing on; it not only makes them come on different parts of the material, but it prevents them from pushing forward and showing at the edges of collars, plackets and such things.

When sewing them on a boned lining the bone can be slipped between the front curves and the back of the hook after they have all been sewn on, making it very taut, (thus saving the labor of fastening the bone in the usual way. It must, of course, be fastened at either end after it is inserted, otherwise it will come out.

For a Double Chin.
The tandem chin is one of the most determined tell-tales of an approaching age. To rid yourself of this chin with social tendencies you should massage the throat each night. The method prescribed is to begin at the point of the chin and rub hard toward each ear. The finger tips should be together at the beginning of the motion and should then push away from each other. Repeat the motion under the jaw and remember to always rub upward. Either oil, cream or an astringent lotion should be used. Be sure that during the massage the head is held well up.

To Induce Sleep.
If you cannot sleep well, try eating an onion sandwich early in the evening. Slice the onion thin, sprinkle with salt and place between two slices of thin bread and butter.

A man may feel that he is standing up for his rights when he keeps his seat in a crowded car.
